

Lexibook launches INTERPRETOR® II, the voice and photo translator to translate instantly up to 137 languages!

Following the success of Interpreter® last year, Lexibook presents today its new translator. Combining the best of its linguistic expertise with the latest artificial intelligence technologies, Interpreter® II is a new model with cutting edge capabilities.

You speak, it translates! Interpreter® II can translate up to 137 languages over Wi-Fi, but can also work offline with 14 of the most common languages. Each translation is written on the screen and, for most languages, also spoken. It offers enhanced translations delivered faster than ever before, and benefits from regular software updates.

Interpreter® II adds a 5MP camera that allows for photo translation, opening up more possibilities like translating a document, a restaurant menu, or any sign encountered. Perfect for professionals thanks to its recording function, it can record important messages, conferences, and translate them easily. These memos can even be transferred in text and audio on a computer.

The new design features a stunning silver metal finish and a bigger 2.4" touchscreen display. Interpretor® II includes a long-lasting rechargeable battery combined with a Type-C USB charging port. It supports earphones thanks to its audio jack. Built for the most versatile uses, it's the perfect language companion for tourists, students, and business workers.
